Special Assistant to Attorney
General Is First Witness
Called

$1,000,000 DUPLICATIONS

Glaring Irregularities Said to Exist in Destruction
Division

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Summoned as the first witness before the house committee investigating alleged irregularities at the Bureau of engraving and printing, Charles B. Brewer, special assistant to the attorney general declared Tuesday "that he could prove there had been duplication of government bonds to a value of about $1,000,000."

"I've never said that hundreds of millions of dollars worth of bonds were flooding the country," Brewer said. "I have insisted that I know of duplications to a value of about $1,000,000 and part of them fraudulent and will prove it."

Brewer read a long statement in reply to a recent treasury report which declares there was no foundation for many of his charges. He insisted he had spent nearly three years investigating conditions of the bureau and had uncovered "both carelessness and fraud," and could prove that "many government securities have been stolen from the treasury vaults."

There had been glaring irregularities, he said, in the destruction division of the bureau and many bonds supposed to have been cancelled and destroyed were in fact retained. He charged also that the treasury had done its utmost to block and discredit him and that "vigorous attempts were made to over-ride President Harding and Coolidge in their efforts to get at the truth."

GERMANS SEE NEW CABINET AFTER VOTING

Three Middle Parties Now in Power Expect Active Support of Socialists

Berlin—An official account of the returns from Sunday's elections for the Reichstag, announced at noon Tuesday, concedes the United Socialists 100 votes, the Nationalists 96, the Center party or Clericals 62, the Democrats 25, the Communists 62, the Peoples party 44 and the Bavarian Peoples party 15.

The big coalition comprising the Socialists, Clericals, Democrats and Peoples party members, still commands a slight majority which will be safeguarded by ten votes from the Middle Class league and the Bavarian Peasants league, and eventually those of the Bavarian Peoples party.

The parliamentary leaders admit that the situation is not yet wholly clarified, but they view any coalition not including the Socialists as a remote possibility, unless the Nationalists make an unequivocal announcement of their complete concurrence with the Dawes report and give assurance of their support for the foreign policies inaugurated and pursued by the present government.

The preponderance of opinion will be composed of the three middle parties now in office, with the active support of the Socialists vouchsafed for it, or that a straight four-party government comprising the Socialists and present parties in power, will succeed the Marx-Stresemann cabinet. None of the latter parties is inclined to join the Nationalists in a bourgeois government.

DOHENY'S SON IS CALLED TO PROBE

Veterinarian forces throughout the state are in readiness to act against approach of the disease, Mr. Larson stated.

FLIERS READY TO CARRY ON WITHOUT LOST COMMANDER

Preparations Completed for Thorough Search of Bering Sea Side

By Associated Press
Fair Pass, Alaska—While searchers, given new hope by first reports that Major Frederick L. Martin had been seen flying his way northward after leaving Chignik, Alaska, were prosecuting their hunt for the world flight commander who has been missing since last Wednesday, the three other army aviators of the squadron were ready to depart Tuesday from Atka island for Attu island, 530 miles distant on the most western end of the Aleutian islands group.

Preparations have been completed for a thorough search of the Bering sea side of the Alaska peninsula following receipt of word that Major Martin had been seen flying in that region after he hopped off from Chignik on his last flight. The men, however, had no idea of the whereabouts of his command who had gone ahead.

Ideal weather for this time of the year had prevailed in the vicinity of Attu and Atka islands the last two days and it was believed that Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, commanding, Lieutenant Erik Nelson and Lieutenant Leigh Wade Tuesday would be able to leave at Kalskad island, their last stop in American territory on this side of the world.

The coastguard cutter Algonquin still was searching along the southern coast of the peninsula for Major Martin and his companion, Staff Sergeant Alva L. Harvey.

Washington, D. C.—Lieutenant Clayton L. Bissell, advance officer for the Dutch Harbor expedition, advised the war department Tuesday in a despatch from Dutch Harbor, Alaska, that nothing more could be done on the Pacific side of the peninsula to locate Major Frederick L. M. Martin, commanding officer of the squadron, who has been missing since April 23. Everything possible had started on the north side of the peninsula, Lieutenant Bissell said.

Adding that the cutter Algonquin would be sent into Bering sea to search that side of the peninsula if nothing developed at Chignik where the ship now is leading the search for the missing officer.

The cutter Haida arrived Monday at Unalaska where her officers conferred with the commander if the Bering sea search for the Haida will start Sunday and will continue along the westward route followed by the three army machines which are continuing the flight without waiting for Major Martin to be found.

UNIONS BACK BILL TO OUST LABOR BOARD

Friends of President Say He Will Veto Howell-Barkeley
Bill

BLOCK MEDIATION BOARD

Several Railroads Lukewarm in Opposition to Measure Under Discussion

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1924 by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C.—Organized labor has lined up solidly behind the Howell-Barkeley bill which proposes to abolish the United States railroad labor board and substitute for it a board of mediation and conciliation.

Friends of President Coolidge have been saying in the last few days that he would veto the bill but there is a general misunderstanding about its provisions and if it should pass both houses of congress a veto may be said to be doubtful.

The writer erroneously stated a few days ago that the Howell-Barkeley plan would eliminate the representatives of the public and leave railway disputes to be decided by the inter-presidential Harding. For the inter-presidential of the employers and employees will alone constitute the membership of the four national adjustment boards which are to settle grievances and conflicts of interpretations on rules. But the principal body, to be known as the board of mediation and conciliation, will consist of five members, all of whom will represent the public. This is directly in line with the recommendation of the late President Harding.

The railroad labor board consists of three representatives of the railroads, three of labor and three of the public. This means that three men, representing the public, usually have the deciding vote, as almost invariably the parties at interest influence the votes of their representatives. To cure this weakness, the representatives of the employers and employees will appear before the board of education as advocates and pleaders for their respective causes and the judgment will be rendered by five impartial judges.

INTRODUCES CHANGE
The Howell-Barkeley bill combines many of the features of the Newlands act, the Erdman act and the present transportation act. It has, however, introduced one important change which has been the basis of opposition by railway employers. It prohibits the employer from interfering in the selection of representatives of the employees from controlling the organizations of employees so as to dictate the selection of employee representatives. This has been inserted to overcome the embarrassments encountered by the present United States Railroad Labor board in determining exactly who actually represents employees on certain railroad systems. It is the outcropping of the old fight as between national labor organizations like the American Federation of Labor and such unions as have been fostered by the Pennsylvania railroad for its own employees. On the Pennsylvania nobody can represent the workmen in a dispute except persons actually on the Pennsylvania's payroll.

FAIL TO FORM BOARDS
The principal weakness of the present transportation act have been the failure of the parties at interest to form the local adjustment boards authorized by the act. These organizations were left to voluntary action by the employers and employees. Under the Howell-Barkeley bill, the adjustment boards would be government institutions and therefore the minor grievances and disputes which have piled high the cases before the United States Railroad Labor board would be diminished because they would, so speak, be settled by the lower tribunals.

Several of the railroads are lukewarm in their opposition to the bill but certain roads which have always fought the present labor board and its decisions are working tooth and nail to beat the bill or force a presidential veto. It looks as if some action will be taken on it before adjournment or a filibuster against adjournment may be started by the Democrats and insurgent Republicans are in the main in sympathy with the proposal.

SENATE RESUMES PROBE OF MELLON AND TAX BUREAU

Watson Gives up Plan to Press
Resolution for Stopping Investigation

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—The fight over investigation of the internal revenue bureau and Secretary Mellon was suddenly resumed in the senate floor Tuesday with Republican organization leaders indicating they were not disposed to further object to continuation of the inquiry.

Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, chairman of the special investigating committee, told the senate he had "no present intention of ever pressing" the resolution he presented some time ago, designed to end the investigation.

This statement was made soon after the senate had taken up the resolution by Senator Jones, Democrat, New Mexico, a member of the committee, which would authorize the employment of special counsel and such other agents as the committee deems necessary.

Announcing he "had no objection to passage of the Jones resolution," Senator Watson added, when questioned, that he had no intention of pushing the fight to close the committee hearings which he had previously condemned as designed solely to further a personal controversy between Senator Clegg, Republican, Michigan, and Secretary Mellon.

Chamber Of Commerce Objects To Vet Bonus

President of National Organization
Foresees Prosperous
Year When Confidence Has Been Restored.

By Associated Press
Cleveland, O.—Several thousand delegates representing trade associations, commercial organizations and chambers of commerce, from all sections of the country among the many leaders in industry and finance, assembled here Tuesday in the twelfth annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce. The initial business session of the convention Tuesday morning followed a preliminary meeting of the national council Monday at which a resolution against the soldiers bonus was adopted and a program for the convention approved.

Following a brief business session, the convention will receive the report of the board of directors, and hear the annual address of President Julius H. Barnes of Duluth, Minnesota.

Virtually all economic factors point to a quick, healthy expansion of world commerce, as soon as business confidence in America is restored by a clearer definition of government relationship to business, Julius H. Barnes, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce predicted Tuesday in his annual address to the convention.

Rehabilitating European commerce which is expected to result from the operation of the Dawes report on German finances, was pointed to by Mr. Barnes as perhaps the most hopeful sign on the horizon of world industry and a perceptible stabilization of the public sentiment to ward business as tokens of continued prosperity.

The present tendency toward retrenchment, he said, was due almost entirely to financial uncertainty growing out of the present governmental situation in Washington, in which policies in taxation and transportation, two fundamental factors in the industrial life of the nation are awaiting determination.

"The decision will clear the track for business to proceed at full speed—if it is not made too late," Mr. Barnes said.

Almost without exception, the countries of Europe today are making noticeable progress toward political and economic stability.

STATE AFFIRMS HIGHWAY RULING

By Associated Press
Madison—Portions of the state highway law authorizing the state highway commission to review orders of county highway authorities were held to be constitutional by the state supreme court Tuesday when it affirmed a ruling of the Iowa circuit court in the case of Jonathan Pease vs. the state highway commission.

The case involved construction of a bridge at Highland. The county contracted with Pease for building a bridge but the state commission reversed the order and directed construction of a more substantial structure. The lower court quashed a writ of certiorari and the case was appealed to the higher court.

CITY DANCE LAW MUST COMPLY WITH COUNTY

By Associated Press
Madison—Cities not exempted from the provisions of a county dance hall ordinance, have power to adopt such regulations as do not conflict with the county legislation but cannot permit dance halls to remain open after the closing hour fixed by the county board, Assistant Attorney General Bump today advised Peter M. Hulnar, district attorney at Port Washington.

The effect of the ruling is to hold that cities must comply with county ordinances as far as closing regulations are concerned but may enact ordinances which do not override the county measures.

AIDE TO ATTORNEY GENERAL REFUTES LANDIS' TESTIMONY

C. W. Middle Kauf Tells Committee Baseball Chief Told Falsehoods

Washington, D. C.—C. W. Middle Kauf, assistant United States attorney general at Chicago, told the senate Daugherty investigating committee Tuesday that former Judge Landis had made "untruthful and unwarranted" statements in his recent testimony about the conviction and pardon of Philip Grossman, a former Chicago saloonkeeper, accused of violating the prohibition law.

In a letter filed with President Coolidge seeking the pardon, Middle Kauf had said that two witnesses testified to sales of liquor in the case in which Grossman was convicted.

Judge Landis said there were four witnesses, although some of them were four witnesses but said that only two of them testified about liquor sales. "One of these, Ball, he insisted, was 'discredited because he passed his expense account'."

There is a prospect that the vote on passage of the bill will come by the end of the week, although some time will be required by consideration of other measures brought up previous agreement. Flushed by their victory, however, the Democrats were prepared to push their substitutes for the corporation and estate taxes, which they have endorsed in party conference.

The Republican insurgents who made possible the Democratic victory Monday were not present at the conference. The compromise move will be made when the bill is up for final passage, Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, demanded that an effort be made for the 32 per cent rate while the house schedule then was agreed upon as the next and last step in the compromise maneuver.

HOOSIERS OPEN STATE PRIMARY

Changes Regarding Corpora- tions and Publications of In- comes Undesirable

G. O. P. SEEKS COMPROMISE
Democrats Feel Confident Republican Substitute Will Be Difficult

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—President Coolidge let it be known that he regards as very undesirable some of the amendments made to the tax bill by the senate.

Amendments viewed by the president as particularly undesirable are those relating to taxation of corporations and to publication of income tax returns. These amendments he regards as more desirable than the substitution of the Simmons surtax rates for the Mellon rates as voted by the senate.

Washington, D. C.—Senate organization Republicans agreed at a conference Tuesday to seek a compromise on the Democratic surtax rates voted into the revenue bill Monday at a maximum rate of 22 per cent and if this fails to go to 37 1/2 per cent in the house schedule.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, in charge of the bill, declared he would propose compromises on the surtax rates when the measure is brought up for final passage. He will offer a maximum rate of 30 per cent, he said, and then if necessary 32 per cent.

INSURGENTS HOLD BALANCE
Final decision rests in the hands of Republican insurgents, who voted with the Democrats Monday, and the Democrats were confident Tuesday that their schedule, calling for a maximum surtax rate of 40 per cent, would stand against any compromise offer.

The house rates, said, the senate Democratic plan differ so slightly advocates of the latter asserted, that a Republican compromise will be difficult.

There is a prospect that the vote on passage of the bill will come by the end of the week, although some time will be required by consideration of other measures brought up previous agreement. Flushed by their victory, however, the Democrats were prepared to push their substitutes for the corporation and estate taxes, which they have endorsed in party conference.

APPLETON AGAIN IS CREDITED WITH FIRST STREET CAR

John I. Beggs, in Radio Address, Declares First Cars Were in This City

Appleton was given nationwide prominence Monday night when John I. Beggs, president of The Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Co., delivered a radio address in Milwaukee on which he declared Appleton had the first electric street railway in the world. The address was on the thirty-sixth anniversary of starting the first line in Richmond, Va.

In making his talk, Mr. Beggs asserted that despite the fact that Richmond is given credit nationally with having had the first electric railway system, the credit really belongs to Appleton. He said that the first electric line started operating in Appleton at least one year previous to the time the first system was operated in Richmond.

"We in Wisconsin have reason to feel proud that the first electric railway line was operated in Appleton by William J. Van Dusen," said Mr. Beggs. "Much grief was experienced by the pioneers and the only reward many of them ever had is the knowledge that they were instrumental in providing the safest and cheapest form of transportation that has thus far been devised by man. In the early days in Appleton everybody wanted to ride but the cars were balky and snow storms made it difficult to operate."

"GREAT PROGRESS MADE" While 30 years ago only a few hundred thousand passengers were carried by the electric railways of this country, today more than 16,000,000,000 passengers are carried each year. Today, too, nearly $6,000,000,000 is invested in the industry, not by business men but also by the public at large.

"In the old days a street car traveled from four to five miles per hour; today, even in congested districts, they travel more than 10 miles an hour and our latest interurban cars attain speeds as high as 100 miles an hour. The car of today is immeasurably superior in every respect."

"PAYING TAX OBSOLETE"

"While wages of employees have increased 700 per cent, hours of labor decreased 40 per cent and material used in operation increased 200 per cent, the rate of fare has increased only 40 per cent. "The only relic of the days of pioneering is the paying tax still imposed on companies. In reality, this tax is a tax upon the car rider, who really has to pay for the paving between tracks in the fare he pays for his ride. This relic of the horse-car days, when horses hoofs were out on the pavements, should be abolished."

VETERANS ALL WERE USHERS AT MEETING

Record Attendance at Legion Meeting Assured by Making Vets "Work"

Usher badges sent to all members of the Oney Johnston post of the American Legion brought a record attendance for the Monday evening program. More than 400 members of the Oney Johnston post and guests from nearby cities were present.

Routine business included the installation of C. E. Behnke as adjutant of the post to take the place of Lawrence Dunn who is making his home in Washington. Mr. Behnke and George Dame were named as the representatives of the Oney Johnston post to the county council.

A big entertainment program was begun by the new American Legion orchestra, which proved to be a big hit. Miss Hannah Rosenthal gave a Spanish dance, Earl Tippet presided at a new weighing apparatus on which Austin Saecker, Eric Galpin, Dr. Joseph L. Benton and Ralph Geis were weighed. Several other vaudeville acts were put on giving great variety to the program. One or two acts were impromptu entertainment including the reciting of poetry by Thomas O'Neill.

HEADACHE GONE TIRED NO MORE

Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Hopes Other Women Will Benefit by Her Experience

Skowhegan, Maine.—"I was sick most of the time and could not get around to do my work without being all tired out so I would have to lie down. One day when I was reading the paper I saw the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertisement and saw what it did for other women, so I thought I would try it. I have taken three bottles, and cannot begin to tell you what it has already done for me. I do all my work now and keep up the whole day long without lying down. I have no more headaches nor tired feelings. I hope every woman who takes the Vegetable Compound will get as much benefit out of it as I have."—Mrs. PERCY W. RICHARDSON, R.F.D. No. 2, Skowhegan, Maine.

You have just read how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped Mrs. Richardson. She gave it a trial after she saw what it had done for other women. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been doing good.

FIRE CHIEF URGES CLEANUP OF FIRE HAZARDS THIS WEEK

McGillan Sounds Warning
Against Bonfires and Asks
Removal of Rubbish

Municipal cleanup week has many a good effect and one of them, in the opinion of Chief George P. McGillan of the Appleton fire department, is fire prevention.

The chief makes many tours through the city and naturally his trained eye is constantly looking for fire hazards. A common hazard visible at this time of the year is the accumulation of rubbish and litter. Much of this rubbish is inflammable and should not be left to lie on the premises.

Appleton is a clean city, the chief thinks, but there is nothing to prevent its citizens from making a clean city cleaner.

RUBBISH IS DANGEROUS

"There are many causes of fire, but there is one that I believe that Appleton could be entirely free from, and that is piles of rubbish and litter," the chief said. "We are now observing the annual spring cleanup week, and everybody ought to take it upon himself to clean up the premises both inside and outside. The attic and cellars, rear buildings, spaces under porches and other out of the way places should not be overlooked. The removal of all this trash increases the safety of the home."

"In connection with cleanup week, I'd like to speak a word of warning on one abuse and that is bonfires. Of course, there is nothing to prevent people from lighting bonfires except common sense and regard for safety. Some people will say, 'If you have to build bonfires to clean up rubbish, be careful to watch the fire,' but why build bonfires at all. They are not necessary and every bonfire is likely to send sparks upon a shingle roof near by and thus start a fire. Bonfires in the evening and also on a day when it is the least bit windy should absolutely be prohibited. The best way to do this is to cart the dead leaves and grass and other rubbish away to the dumping grounds."

STIFF SENTENCE FOR INTOXICATED DRIVER

William Hopfensberger, who lives in Calumet-co., was sentenced to spend 30 days in Winnebago-co. jail and pay a fine of $100 or spend another 60 days in jail, when he was convicted in an Appleton court of driving an automobile while he was intoxicated. The arrest was made last Friday night on the Appleton-Menasha road where Hopfensberger is alleged to have endangered other drivers by his reckless driving.

Wine Discarded Ring
The diamond ring which Charles Maloney gave away at the party in Armory G Sunday night, was awarded to Ray Haase, 344 Union-st. This is the last week of roller skating at the armory under Mr. Maloney's management.

90 DAY SENTENCE
Schuyler—Justice Harry Wolters fined Eugene Bascomb $50 and sentenced him to sixty days in the workhouse when the defendant pleaded guilty to driving an auto while intoxicated. The penalty was the heaviest ever meted out in a Justice court in the county's history. "Intoxicated drivers must be curbed," the court declared, "and we might as well begin making an example of them."

Three other drivers pleading guilty to the same charge in Municipal court in the last two days had been given fines ranging from $4.40 to $50.

WOLF RIVER LAND UNDER DEEP WATER

Thousands of Acres Inundated.
High Water Association
Official Learns

Oshkosh—In spite of the fact that the sluice gates in the Neenah and Menasha dams are all open and water is being drawn off rapidly, thousands of acres of land are under water at upriver points.

That is the information given to Allen H. Tripp, president of the Association for Relief of High Water, by C. J. Thompson, city clerk of New London. The gauge at that city showed a height of 8 feet, 6 inches Monday and Mr. Thompson said it was impossible to say how many acres of land were inundated but "it will run into thousands."

WATER MOVING FAST

Just how rapidly the water is being carried off may be comprehended by the gauge readings here today. The Randall gauge shows a reading of 51.96, or 15 1/2 inches above the crest of the dam. The Randall gauge is at the Main street bridge. The government gauge at the Chicago & Northwestern railroad bridge, about one-fourth of a mile down stream, shows a reading of 13 1/2 inches above the crest of the dam.

NEED SHILOTTON CANAL

"Conditions are as per agreement from the Menasha dam to Lake Poygan," said Mr. Tripp. "Conditions are not satisfactory from Lake Poygan to Shilotton, though, and I am convinced they never will be, and that control of floods can never be brought about, until the proposed Shilotton canal is provided." The letter of the clerk of New London shows that while the water is lowering in the Lake Winnebago region there has been but slight change at upriver points.

ATTENDING THE CONVENTIONS

All the voters of the United States may attend the conventions of the two political parties this year. Arrangements are being made to broadcast the proceedings of the Republican National convention, in Cleveland, June 10th. Undoubtedly the proceedings of the Democratic convention will be broadcast.
Comparatively few citizens have witnessed a big political convention. All have seen pictures in the newspapers of persons and incidents and have read descriptions and speeches. All, therefore, have a fairly accurate idea of a big political meeting. This year voters will be present at the convention, and will hear what is going on and taking place. It will be an interesting novelty.
All who hear the proceedings will read the daily newspapers with even keener interest than if they had not been present by radio. The newspapers will interpret the proceedings to them. The radio is an ally of the press.

HERR STINNES AND TAXES

Principle works out in theory better than in practice with some persons and in some instances, and if it did not work out better in practice than in theory with most persons and in most instances, there would be no stability and no progress, and it would not be long until civilization crumbled. Principle fails too frequently in business and public affairs in these times. If we would ascertain the causes of the majority of our problems, we should look for disregard of principle and mistakes of judgment, both being, in the main, due to selfishness.

After the death, recently, of Hugo Stinnes, the German ironmaster and capitalist, we read that he honestly and firmly believed that society rested on the state and the family. To the state he was loyal in a rugged manner of positive conviction; he believed that it should be strong and stern. He committed his name and wealth to his family, hoping that Stinnes would be a power in business and an influence in the state for many centuries.

Now we learn in a message from Berlin that the government will receive no inheritance tax from the immense Stinnes estate, and the family will have and hold something like $100,000,000, which, in the principle of modern regulation of wealth and in the principle of modern distribution of assessment on the basis of capacity to pay, should accrue to the state.

According to the German law, if a widow is sole legatee, no tax is extracted, although total disinheritance of children is forbidden. The children of the deceased multi-millionaire appeared in court and waived their rights in his property. Herr Stinnes, it is said, was opposed to paying taxes. The government, he thought would waste its revenue.

Rich men seem to be incapable of understanding taxation in conformity with the principle whose objective is equal distribution of wealth. They cannot understand that nothing is so subversive to solid government and contented society as the concentration of vast fortunes among a few families and groups. They are unable to realize that they owe their success and luck to the conditions which the state and the public create. No one prospers solely through his own intelligence and effort. Every one's wealth is as secure as the state is. The state is as stable as public opinion and enterprise.

RUSSIA—IN TROTSKY'S WORDS

Here are words used, and no doubt carefully and precisely, by Trotsky, war minister of Russia, in his speech on May-Day in the Grand Theater, in Moscow: "The principal purpose of May-Day should be an unrelenting struggle against militarism, but the question of safeguarding the soviet republic is the vital one of the hour. We must, therefore, regard this day as the great holiday for our army and navy."

Analyze those remarks in connection with conditions and facts. The most important aim of human kind is to abolish militarism. Yet, the soviet government, while declaring opposition to militarism, justifies itself in a militarist policy. Why? Because it is necessary to safeguard the soviet republic. Russia must have an army and navy to protect the soviet republic, and the proletariat is urged to celebrate May-Day as a militarist holiday.

The soviet republic is not in danger of disruption from France, Poland, Great Britain, Germany or Italy. Each of these countries has its own serious business commanding strict attention, and none wishes to have another war, as the cost in life, property and money is too great. No nation in Europe thinks of attacking Russia. Japan may some day invade Russia, but the hour for so doing is not here, and the invasion will occur whether Russia is soviet, republican or monarchic.

Why soviet Russia needs to be militarist and maintain an army of a million Reds is quite plain. This great force is armed, trained and paid in order to check revolution in Russia. The soviet army is the government's means of imposing communism on the common people and farmers. Russia is ruled by a radical and despotic minority, which holds its power with soldiers and guns. There could not possibly be any liberty or justice under each a domination.

What is explained as being the supporting principle of communism is the power of the masses. The government is said to be the people's. Property is owned in common; that is, it belongs not to any one, but to all. Consequently, the people and property belong to the state. The militarism which Trotsky says is vital to the safeguarding of the soviet republic is the perpetual menace which holds the masses in subjection to Trotsky and his friends, who are the people and the state, as, with the army, they own the people and the state.

HOW TO DODGE COLDS

When people catch cold at this time of year, they usually blame it on changing too suddenly to light-weight clothes, especially underwear. A medical authority tells us that, while it is risky to make an abrupt change in the warmth of garments, the usual cause of spring epidemics of colds is this: During the winter germs have accumulated on the sidewalks and streets and pavements. As warm weather comes, the mud in the streets dries to dust and begins floating around in the air. This dust carries the winter crop of germs with it. The germs lodge on mucous membranes of nose and throat. An epidemic of colds follows. One would not even be immune even if he wore a germ filter over mouth and nostrils. It has been scientifically proved that germs can enter the body through the eyes.

The popular notion is that a period of wet weather starts an epidemic of colds. As a matter of fact, more colds are "caught" during dusty warm spells. The germs are held in check by the resisting powers of the body. In damp or rainy weather, people get their feet wet. Or they get chilled by changing too quickly to light-weight garments and other ways. This chilling lowers the body's resistance. The germs, which entered the body before clothes were changed, or during colder or drier weather, now begin to multiply. The result is a severe cold.

Some health authorities claim that colds in cities could be reduced at least by half if streets and sidewalks were flushed with water from hydrants to carry germ-laden dust down the sewers. Instead, cities wait until the dust is dry, then sweep it—partly into heaps for collectors, but also into the air where it is breathed into nose, throat and lungs. It would not cost much to get the fire hoses out and give the streets and sidewalks a thorough cleansing—a virtual sterilization, in fact. A few wise cities do this.

The same process applies to the home. Germs are carried in on the shoes. They collect in rugs. Sweeping with a broom stirs them into the air. A vacuum cleaner for sweeping and a wet cloth for dusting are powerful health protectors.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

RESUSCITATION

If Uncle George made the medicine cabinet strictly according to the plans and specifications I laid down at the beginning of this series of talks we've been having about the management of minor ills and emergencies, he provided two or three empty pigeon holes or spaces between the phenolphthalein and the Seltitz powders, both of which we discussed last time, the medicines, not the holes, as you have probably forgotten—or if you did cut it out somebody went and used it for a shaving paper or to light his pipe. Let us take advantage of these empty spaces and make sure just how we ought to go about resuscitating a person who is overcome by gas, smoke, suffocation, carbon monoxide from the exhaust of an automobile, or one who is apparently drowned or shocked by electricity. In other words, how to perform—a word I hate, so let us say rather how to do artificial respiration. Such knowledge naturally belongs to the physician, but it is a sad but horribly common occurrence for poorly educated people to blunder away for want of just a little knowledge such as any Boy Scout or any Girl Scout has. God bless the men and women who gave us the Scouts.

First, let me impress upon you as forcibly as possible three don'ts which apply in any drowning emergency or whenever resuscitation or artificial respiration is to be used.

1. Don't look for a barrel.
2. Don't try to "pump the arms."
3. Don't wait for a pulmotor or any other apparatus to arrive.

The most effective method of inducing or restoring the breathing, more effective than any machine, and at the same time the simplest and least laborious to apply, is the method of Schaefer, otherwise called the prone pressure method. Schaefer's method, moreover, is less likely to injure the subject than is a pulmotor or lung motor or the old-fashioned arm pumping method. As Schaefer describes it:

"It consists in laying the subject in the prone position, preferably on the ground with a thick folded garment or blanket or pillow underneath the chest and at the same time the simplest and least laborious to apply, is the method of Schaefer, otherwise called the prone pressure method. Schaefer's method, moreover, is less likely to injure the subject than is a pulmotor or lung motor or the old-fashioned arm pumping method. As Schaefer describes it:

"Every man, woman and child should be absolutely sure he or she knows precisely how to do artificial respiration, and the only way you can be sure you know is by trying it on a volunteer subject. There should be a suitable penalty provided for contributory negligence when anybody permits a life to go out without rendering this kind of first aid in an attempt to save."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Meat Is Good Food

I have read that man is like an ape by nature, that is, herbivorous. Is meat necessary as a food for man? (G. B. L.)

Answer.—It is questionable whether human life and health can be sustained without some meat, and of course meat includes fowl, fish, eggs and milk or cheese—animal protein. Practically at least for younger persons who still have some growth and development coming to them, a reasonable amount of meat is advisable in the diet. A young person ought to have fresh meat at one meal every day. An older person may be better off with meat only once or twice a week. It seems that about two ounces of protein is necessary for the daily building, growth and repair, and these animal proteins are better adapted for assimilation than vegetable proteins, such as in peas, beans and nuts. LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Tuesday, May 9, 1899.

Arthur Jones left for Chippewa river on a fishing trip. Dr. Freund moved his family to Davenport, Ia., where he was to make his future home. George Walter was confined to his home with infection in his foot.

Seeding throughout Outagamie-co was greatly delayed by wet weather. The Ontario reservation was being resurveyed in order to establish boundary lines. The Traction company was building roofs over the platforms at Waverly and Brighton beach. A San Francisco dispatch said ten Filipinos who had just arrived to exhibit in a museum were not allowed to land.

Nearly all the papermills were having trouble with fish getting into the flumes in such numbers as to interfere with the water reaching the wheels. The houses which J. H. Green & Sons used in getting out shipwood at St. Ignace, Mich., the previous winter, arrived in Appleton Monday.

Fishing for bullheads along the banks of Fox river was a popular early evening pastime. The will of the late John Speaker, Sr., was being contested in probate court by some of the heirs. W. H. Rogers sold a lot at Appleton Junction on which a new store building was to be erected.

TEN YEARS AGO

Tuesday, May 5, 1914.

The West End Reading club met with Mrs. George C. Jones.

A 3-pound son was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. Ries, Superior at the day previous.

Mrs. B. A. Price of Tomahawk was the guest of Appleton relatives.

William D. Connor, Jr., of Marshfield was in Appleton on business.

G. D. Ziegler of Milwaukee, was in Appleton to attend a meeting of the board of directors of the Aid Association for Lutherans.

Ned Barnes, who had been with the United States army signal corps, visited Appleton while on his way home from a fishing expedition to Gill's Landing.

Articles were filed with Register of Deeds A. G. Koch changing the name of Appleton Marble & Granite company to the George Wolf company.

A deal was consummated by which Reinhard Hornman purchased the half interest in the Atlas motion picture house on West College-ave from Otto Reinhold.

It was estimated that at least 2,000 persons visited the new home of the First National bank Monday.

Mrs. Ellen Reese, 65, died Monday at her home, 224 McClure-st.

SEEN, HEARD and IMAGINED

---that's all there is to life

Top o' the day, folks! We hope that everybody who is going to have a battle royal with a trout this season would hurry up and catch it and have it over with.

There were no fewer than 200,000, 600 fishermen on the Winnebago bridge Sunday, says truthful Ez Williams, but he doubts whether there was enough "trout" to go around.

Condolences Are In Order
They say that two of those Winnebago fish are awful thankful to one George Dame for their freedom. A whole morning's labor was wasted Sunday when George forgot himself and got up from the string on which he was sitting. We haven't heard yet what it cost him to settle with his companions. Yes, the fish were tied securely—but to the string only.

An Appleton attorney who is somewhat in the limelight these days says he never realized before how many law-abiding sportsmen there are. A man must be a pretty good conversationalist to go where the fish are the plentiful and come back without any.

THE POOR FISH

Oh, once I was affianced,
To a girl named Mary Jane,
But she met a bloke with a flivver,
And I never saw her again.

L. I. Z. rises to remark that pink silk is much to be preferred to the red flannels, which Rollo advised for wear at this time of the year. Well, you wear pink silk. We'll stick by the red flannels.

We wonder if the little society editor didn't miss out on some "charming dance" that must have been held last night. The clerk down at the drug store tells us he sold out of corn plasters and aspirin long before noon today.

We had been wondering just what the men could do in the way of counter propaganda against the bobbed hair, but residents of Pratt, Kans. have solved the problem. Business men of that burg have taken the pledge they will never shave again until wife's hair has grown long.

First Paper Money Issued By Traders

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C. — Paper currency originally was not issued by government but by individuals. There is no record of where the system first was tried but it was probably in Europe in the Middle Ages. Rich merchants or great landholders in whom the public had reason to feel confidence would issue promises to pay certain amounts of money, either on a specific date or on demand. Within the territorial radius in which such men were known it was recognized that their promise, written on a slip of paper, was literally as good as gold. For that reason the man who received such a slip of paper could find some other man to whom he owed a debt who would be willing to accept the written promise. Perhaps one of these promises would pass through several hands before finally being redeemed in coin or goods.

The first banks were started by traders—merchants who often owned ships and warehouses...and who bought and sold in the markets of the world. They extended the practice of issuing paper instead of coin and put it on a more scientific basis. Still, however, the government was in no sense behind the issues and the soundness of this paper currency depended upon public confidence in the bankers.

PRIVATE CURRENCY

In the United States, paper currency went through many vicissitudes. There was a good deal of private paper issued by individuals up to and even after the issuance of the first continental currency. Indeed, the personal promises of men like Robert Morris were by many regarded as worth more than those of the continental government. This belief was well justified, proved to be the case for the continental currency finally disappeared as worthless. The expression: "Not worth a continental" refers to the ultimate worthlessness of the early American money.

Many expedients were suggested by various financiers and statesmen concerning currency issues in the early days of the republic. The bank of the United States was an experiment which finally ended in failure. It was privately controlled bank which had been a sort of concession by the federal government but it got into difficulties and was forced out of business.

American paper money was first put on a solid basis when the national bank act was passed during the Civil war. The greenbacks which were the direct issue of the government, had depreciated and the public had lost confidence in them because there was nothing back of them save the promise of the United States to pay. The United States was engaged in the civil war and not a few people doubted whether the republic would stand the test. The national bank act provided that any five persons could put up a total capital of $50,000 could start a bank which could enjoy the note-issuing privilege. Such a bank must be bonded from the federal government and these were required to be held to secure the circulation.

It isn't Luck that's selling these Vassar Union Suits $1 to $5

There is no Royal Road to Popularity. You either deliver the goods or you don't endorse the checks—that's all—

This season so far—and here it is only May—we have sold more Vassar Union Suits than nine tenths of most stores in this size city sell in a full year.

We have customers write us—customers phone us from other cities—and we have developed the Union Suit business of Appleton.

Why?—Because Vassar Union Suits fit a little better—feel a little better—and wear a little better than any other underwear made in America.

BIG VALUES too—we never leave that out of our customer making recipe! Silk Hose with Clocks. Beautifully styled collar attached Shirts. New Soft Caps.

notes are immediately retired and the debt cancelled.

The United States now has several kinds of paper money. There still are some greenbacks, which are merely unsecured promises to pay. There are silver and gold certificates and for every paper dollar issued there is a gold or silver dollar kept at the Treasury payable on demand to the holder of the paper. Many National bank notes are in circulation. These issues have little or no elasticity. Elasticity is furnished by Federal Reserve notes which usually constitute about half of all the paper money in circulation.

Kaukauna—Plans for commencement were made at a meeting of the senior class in the library of the new high school Monday afternoon. "Out of School Life into Life's School" was chosen as the motto for the class of 1924. Class colors were changed from blue and gold to coral and silver and the flower was changed from the daisy to the sweet pea, previously selected. Commencement exercises will be held on Friday evening, June 13. School will close a few weeks later this term due to the fact that construction on the new building prevented the opening of school at the usual time. The annual class play "The Charm School" will be presented by the seniors on Wednesday evening, June 11. Final commencement arrangements have not yet been made. Another senior class meeting was to have been held Tuesday to name committees for class day exercises which probably also will be held during commencement week. It has finally been decided to hold a junior senior banquet although an attempt was made to discourage the annual custom.

LARGE FIERY CROSS IS BURNED NEAR KAUKAUNA

Kaukauna—What is believed to have been an "official" act of the Ku Klux Klan was the burning of a monster cross about 2:15 Saturday evening on "Red Hill" about a mile from the city on the river road which leads past the ball park. The fiery cross is said to have been fully 25 feet high although others who drove out to the scene declared it was only 15 feet high with cross pieces facing in four directions. The cross pieces were estimated about 15 feet across. The cross was constructed of two by four timbers securely bolted.

The cross, although a considerable distance from town, was in the direct line of vision of persons walking or riding east on Wisconsin ave. It was visible from every part of the city.

Kaukauna—Final action on accepting teachers' contracts for next term was again postponed at the regular meeting of the board of education Monday evening in the high school superintendent's office. It is probable the contract matter will be settled at the next meeting.

Waterpool. His salary will be $2,300. No additional teachers were hired although Mr. Cavanaugh was authorized to negotiate for another.

New bids for the sale of school property were opened but again were rejected. James Lambie offered $1,201 for the janitor property and James Little of Combined Locks offered $1,260.

This Comparison is changing the Home Building Habits of a Nation

You have watched the construction of a great brick wall, and have heard some bystander remark, "That building will certainly be warm." But WILL it? The two-inch walls of your refrigerator keep out far more heat than the walls of your house.

For beneath the enameled covering of the "ice box" is a material that stops as much cold as 16 times its thickness in brick, as 27 times its thickness in concrete. This material is Flax-li-num, the insulation.

Stops Heat and Cold

Flax-li-num resists the passage of heat as rubber resists that of electricity. It is a tough felt-like material made from flax fibres. It comes in sheets correctly cut to fit into house walls and roofs.

As Flax-li-num protects your refrigerator so it brings comfort and economy to your home. Keeps it warm in winter and cool in summer. Bottles up the heat in December and shuts it out in August.

Saves 1/3 on Fuel Bill

Winter fuel bills are cut 25 to 40% by this good material. No draughty rooms, no days when the home just won't get warm. And on hot summer nights, even in the rooms right under the roof you find refreshing comfort and satisfying coolness.

These are the reasons houses everywhere are being lined with this good material. See that you, too, live in one of these worth while houses.

"For Comfort and Economy," a valuable booklet for home builders, sent on request. Call, write or phone for cost estimate, or to locate Flax-li-num houses to rent or buy.

Vast Amount Of Legal Work Fell To Lot Of Attorney In Six Years

City Attorney Berg Retires from Office After Guiding Council Over Many Pitfalls.

The change in the office of city attorney which went into effect on May 1 meant the completion of six years of important work on the part of Theodore Berg, the retiring attorney. Mr. Berg Monday had his books and office fixtures moved from the city hall to his new offices on the second floor of the Olympian-bldg, 807 College-ave. He is the only city officer to go out of office at this time.

Mr. Berg assumed office at the return of the aldermanic regime in 1918 and during these six years the city had many an occasion to call upon the attorney for legal aid. Probably more ordinances were passed during his term than in any other six years in the history of the city.

At the resumption of the aldermanic government the city had 175 ordinances on the books. When Mr. Berg left office there were 225 city ordinances, which means 50 laws that the city council enacted. Some of these were entirely new ordinances and others were amendments to existing ordinances, but nearly all were prepared by the city attorney.

FOUR NEW BOARDS
Four new boards and commissions have been made a part of the city government as a result of ordinances passed within the last six years. The largest bond issue in the city's history was undertaken last year, four of the city's biggest building projects were started, the city has acquired considerable more property, extended, opened, and widened several streets and purchased right of ways for all of which a great amount of legal work was necessary.

The biggest ordinance that has ever been passed is the city zoning ordinance. This was not prepared by the retiring city attorney, but a number of changes were made by him at the request of city officials before it was presented for passage and passed. After passage of the ordinance the city council often turned to the attorney for drafts of amendments.

One of the principle additions to the zoning ordinance, which aims to protect the health and beauty of the community, was the provision creating a board of appeals. This is a board of five men who meet monthly and often to give property owners dissatisfied with the decisions of the city engineer and building inspector an opportunity to appeal. The board's decisions are final in every case.

CHANGE WATER BOARD
The zoning appeal board is entirely distinct from the city plan commission. Through the efforts of this commission a zoning ordinance and city plan looking toward the future development of Appleton were prepared. The ordinance creating a plan commission was prepared by Mr. Berg.

One of the most important ordinances drafted was that reorganizing the water commission. Until nearly two years ago the commission was not a nonpartisan board but consisted of a number of city officers besides private citizens. The commission under the reorganization consists of five citizen members and its duties are defined by law.

The most recent board to be organized is the board of park commissioners, consisting of five members who plan development of Appleton's park system and supervise the parks.

Other important ordinances that were passed during Mr. Berg's term of office were a law regulating motorbuses, the arterial highway ordinance providing for the renaming of streets and renumbering of buildings. Initial resolutions and ordinances were necessary for the two school bond issues. Several minor ordinances prepared by him are now pending.

The first school bond issue of $425,000 was completed legally by the retiring attorney and was the only one in which outside legal aid was not enlisted. The bonds for the second issue of $250,000 have not yet been sold, since the money will not be needed for some time.

WON COURT BATTLE
Legal work in connection with the two bridge contracts, the junior high school contracts, the contracts for the big paving program four years ago, and in connection with deeds for streets and alleys, particularly for the Cherry-st right of way and the emergency right of way in the Fourth ward, and deeds for three parks, Pierce, Erb and Fourth ward park, purchased within the last few years, was attended to. Condemnation proceedings had to be undertaken by the attorney for the city to open or extend several streets. A court case in which the Elk's club sued the city to recover $1,037 in taxes was won for the city. There also are two cases pending in which the first National bank and the Citizens National bank are seeking to recover money paid for taxes. The city attorney was a member of the board of public works which is entrusted with work affecting city property, he also acted in an advisory capacity to the city council at all its meetings and also for the police and fire commission and conducted several hearings for that body.

BRUSEWITZ HEARS OF NEAR ACCIDENTS AT GRADE CROSSING

Highway Commissioner Securing Data on Danger at Highway 15 Grade

Response to the request of A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner, for information on accidents that have occurred at McCarthy's crossing, has been quite favorable, he said.

Since he made his appeal to drivers who have been in accidents or near accidents either with train, interurban car or automobile, he has received several letters conveying information which will be of value to the state highway commission which is endeavoring to establish the fact that McCarthy's crossing is actually a dangerous crossing. Unless the highway commission has enough evidence of accidents which have occurred there, it may fall in its attempt to prove to the state railroad commission that a viaduct should be built over the railway and interurban tracks. The project will, if approved by the railroad

HANDS NEVER TOUCH BREAD TURNED OUT AT STINGLE BAKERY

Modern Machinery Insures Absolutely Pure and Clean Bakedstuffs

Does it mean anything to you that Stingle's bread which is being made in A Stingle and Sons Baking Company's new bakery is never touched by human hands from the time that the grain becomes flour until you unwrap it and cut it for your table use? This is one of the achievements that the Appleton bakery company offers to its patrons as one of its biggest boasts.

No effort has been spared to make the Stingle product the most sanitary and most wholesome that modern science and machinery can produce. Automatic machinery is used to make laboratory tested materials into food. When the product has been baked in white tiled ovens after having been in the proofing compartments, it is handled by wrapping machines. The bread wrappers and cake cartons are air tight so that the food keeps well and there is no possibility of contamination from dust or other germ carrying agents.

Special shower baths have been installed in the addition to the building for the use of the bakers. It is a requisite of all bakers in the employ of A. Stingle that they take a shower each morning before their work begins.

Even the bread which "mother used to bake" had many contacts with human hands. At the Stingle bakery as in all scientifically equipped modern bakeries the process of sifting the flour, mixing the dough, kneading it, putting it into the pans, removing it from the oven and finally wrapping it is done by machine.

SPECIAL BRANDS BUILD BUSINESS FOR STINGLE CO.

Motor Driven Machinery Gives
Appleton Company Big Production

"Dolly Delite Cakes" and "Appleton Maid Bread" are truly Appleton products which are being given a wide sale through the new extension policy of Stingle and Sons Baking company. The new modern and scientific bakery erected by this company will be open for inspection on Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Cream and orange is the color scheme worked out for the new bakery. These colors are used on its cake cartons, its bread wrappers and its motor trucks.

Besides these two products Dolly Delite cakes and Appleton Maid Bread which are the specialties of the wholesale business, many additional bakery staples are being made here. There is a special French and Danish pastry department which puts out some very toothsome products and which will make special designs for special occasions. Doughnuts are made in their own special department so that the smoke and smell of the frying does not get into other departments.

Motors drive the baking machinery and other equipment. Elevators, cake machines, moulder, rounder, divider, wrapping machine, sifter, dough mixer and overhead proofer all are motor driven. Imagine the energy of these machines each doing its share of the work in proportion to the mixer which converts flour into dough at the rate of 300 pounds in 15 minutes. So perfect is the mechanism for preparing a loaf of bread that it appears almost automatic, each machine doing its work when the button is pressed.

GRADE SCHOOL BOYS SHOW TALENT AS DECORATORS

Manual training work which is very unusual for grade school boys was exhibited at the Third Ward school on Friday by the instructor of the work, Carl E. Enger. Polychrome sconces, candle sticks and picture plaques which are much more attractive than one would believe grade school boys could make were in the exhibit.

The polychrome work on the wooden bases which the boys have made for themselves is an idea which Mr. Enger originated. The manual training students were assisted in the making of plaques by students in home economics under the direction of Miss Vivian Morrow.

Teachers from mother cities who

HE'LL KILL MAN WHO SHOT BROTHER

Miami, Ariz.—"He killed my boy. Now I'm going to kill him."

W. L. Grosh is going to make good his boast—and with the law's consent.

He will spring the trap at the hanging of William B. Ward, negro slayer of his son, Theodore Wilbur, (Ted) Grosh.

The execution is scheduled to be held at the Arizona state penitentiary in Florence, June 26.

But Grosh will not get to see Ward die. The hangman's lever is hidden from view of the gallows.

"I am satisfied, though," he insists. "I'll see him a few seconds later, and then I will know he is dead. I'll know I killed him!"

"Everything I have done in my life has been prompted by my love for my six children. For years I have worked in the mines to send them to school."

"I have been both father and mother to them since their mother died when Musa May (his youngest child) was only 5. That was 15 years ago."

"Now I have a little garage and this cabin—a place they could always call home. But Ted never will come home again."

"I am going to hang this man through love for my dead boy and Musa May. She wants me to kill him, too. Every night before she goes to sleep she makes me promise we'll get even. And we will!"

"Ted" Grosh, a sophomore at the University of Arizona, was murdered while returning home from a dance during the Christmas holidays. The girl he was with was assaulted and left for dead after her assailant had fired two bullets into her head.

Ward was arrested late the next day. A jury in an adjoining county convicted him in just 16 minutes.

One whole orange, 1 cup consommé, 1 cup vegetable salad, 2 lamb chops, 1 cup dandelion greens with lemon juice, 2 tablespoons diced carrots, 1 pint skimmed milk, 2 pieces crisp gluten croutons, 1 bran roll.

Total calories, 1090. Protein, 238; fat, 232; carbohydrate, 613. Iron, .0207 gram.

Milk is especially acceptable in a high protein diet because of its non-oxidized ash after oxidation in the body. The protein of meat leaves an acid-forming ash, which is used to excess is sure to cause trouble.

The minerals in milk to form the alkaline ash as well as supply the necessary time and iron in the diet. Don't neglect your pint of milk daily.

Skimmed milk is quite as valuable with the exception of the vitamins found in the butter fat as whole milk. Your fresh fruits and vegetables will supply this need.

FASHION HINTS

SATIN WRAPS

One of the most luxurious wraps seen in a Fifth Avenue shop is of black satin banded with ermine and lined with white kasha cloth.

RED FOX

Red fox is being combined extensively this season with light colors and with silk fabrics. A three-piece costume of black satin shows a coat banded with it and an over-tunic of georgette the same color of the fur.

YELLOW POPULAR

The use of yellow in millinery is the most prevalent influence now. Hats of yellow felt are trimmed with flowers in the gold, yellow and char- treuse tones.

LEATHER BOWS

Small leather bows are used instead of buckles on the new plain pumps.

REDUCING GIRDLE

There is a new type of reducing girdle that is said to reduce the hips quite perceptibly. It is of rubber, and laces in the back so that it can be adjusted and fit the figure as one slim.

One whole orange, 4 tablespoons creamed potatoes, 2 ounces sausage, 1 cup consommé, 1/2 cup combination vegetable salad with 2 tablespoons French dressing, 2 tablespoons baked macaroni with cheese, 1 maple cup custard, 1 cup tomato soup with rice, 2 lamb chops, 2 new potatoes in cream sauce, 1 cup dandelion greens with 1 tablespoon butter and lemon juice, 2 tablespoons diced carrots with butter, 1 fried banana, 2 tablespoons graham pudding with 1 tablespoon whipped cream, 1 pint whole milk, 2 cornmeal muffins with 2 tablespoons maple syrup, 2 tablespoons croutons, 1 bran roll, 3 tablespoons butter.

Total calories, 3274. Protein, 401; fat, 1626; carbohydrate, 1947. Iron, .02 gram.

The normal diet should be in the proportion of one-tenth protein, three-tenths fat and six-tenths carbohydrate. In a gaining diet the amount of fat is increased but the fat must be easily digested.

Carbohydrates which consist of starch, sugar, dextrin and the acids of fruits and vegetables are the most easily digested and absorbed. Consequently any diet contains more carbohydrate calories than protein or fat. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

Adventures Of The Twins

NICK SAVES TIME

Down the road of Beanstalk Land went Nancy and Nick toward the red house where the giant boy lived.

They could still hear him crying, because, as he had also told them, he had to go to the dentist's with his mother at 10 o'clock.

"We'll fix it some way," Nick kept saying. "I don't blame him for crying. We'll fix it so he doesn't have to go."

When they reached the house the front door was shut, but they climbed through the key-hole without any trouble at all.

The clock on the mantel said exactly half past 9.

At that minute Mrs. Giant came in and looked at the clock.

"My, my," she exclaimed, "I don't know it was so late! I shall have to be ready in 15 minutes to take Johnny to the dentist's, because it will take us 15 minutes more to get there. I'll go right up and get washed and combed and change my dress and put on my hat."

No sooner had she gone than Nick whispered, "I know what to do, Nancy. We'll turn the clock back. Come on! This brick mantel is easy to climb."

So up they went, not only because they were good climbers, but because the magic shoes were a wonderful help as well.

The next thing was to open the big front door of the clock. This was not so easy, but where there is a will there is a way, and the glass door swung open at last.

Nick shopped up and grabbed the huge minute hand, and with all his might, turned it back a whole hour. Then they closed the clock again, and hid behind a vase on the mantel.

In a few minutes down came Johnny's mother.

"I'll have to call Johnny and wash his face all over again," she said. "It won't be so easy, but you know, mother, as well as I, that Prissy Bradford would say so, but you know, mother, as well as I, that Prissy Bradford has always been on the hunt for me ever since either of us could talk and I have always told you I would not marry her if she were the last woman on earth."

Please tell her this or, better yet, let her read this letter. She may then come to the conclusion that it isn't worth her while to play detective on Leslie any more.

You can't make me think Providence had anything to do with her. I want anyone to spy on Leslie. Prissy is just an old snoop, that is all. And while I am about it I may tell you that marrying Leslie Hamilton was the one decent thing I ever did in my life. She has been an angel to me.

If Prissy Bradford saw her dining with a man in the Waldorf restaurant I can hardly see what sin she can make out of it. Probably the man paid for the dinner and that is more than any man would do for Prissy if he were sane.

For the peace of mind, however, I will say that Leslie went to New York to bid her father and mother goodbye before they went away on their trip abroad. She took the baby with her, for she will not be separated from him one night.

I have been perfectly miserable in my loneliness while she has been gone. I did not think she was so necessary to me, and I care so little about her dining with any man, one that I know or one that is strange to me, that if she forgets to tell me about it when she comes home I shall not even ask her.

Don't ever dream for one moment that if I were the loneliest man on earth I could live with you and that meddlesome old maid.

This may sound harsh to you, but you have brought it on yourself. I am no longer a boy to be scolded and punished.

We have grown very far apart in the long years I have been away from you. Our codes of life are entirely different.

You have stayed shut up among the dead and gone Puritanical traditions of your home and while I shall always take care of you because you are my mother we have nothing in common.

I shall be glad to see you here for a short visit when you can treat Leslie as your daughter, and not before.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT

I cannot understand why you should take the word of that meddling old maid, mother, when you must know all the time that the only reason she is trying to make a fuss between Leslie and me is because she always wanted to marry me herself.

I know this sounds rather egotistical, at least I expect Miss Bradford would say so, but you know, mother, as well as I, that Prissy Bradford has always been on the hunt for me ever since either of us could talk and I have always told you I would not marry her if she were the last woman on earth."

Please tell her this or, better yet, let her read this letter. She may then come to the conclusion that it isn't worth her while to play detective on Leslie any more.

Household Suggestions

GET EXTRA LENGTH

When buying a carpet for the stairs get an extra step length more than you need and turn it under at the top or bottom, changing occasionally so that the wear will be distributed more evenly.

ADD CARBOLIC ACID

Whitewash with a little carbolic acid added to it makes a most satisfactory finish for cellar walls.

KEEP UTENSILS HANDY

Always be sure to have your cork-screw and can opener where you can lay your hands upon them in a moment's notice and do not attempt to use a good knife to open bottles or cans.

WASHING CHIFFON

Wash chiffon in warm soapy water and rinse in warm water in which a lump of sugar has been dissolved.

VENTILATE THE KITCHEN

Do not neglect ventilation in your kitchen as it is most important for carrying out odors of cooking, and because a well-ventilated room is much cooler than one in which the air becomes stale.

AUDIENCE ENJOYS LEGION PROGRAM

Wocauwaga—On Friday evening, May 2, the American legion and auxiliary presented a splendid program at Gorold opera house. Special favor and applause were given the dancing dolls under the direction of Mrs. George Clason. Miss Clymene Tarisay of Oconto proved charming in her dances and songs.

Mme. Traviata with her novel violin was especially good and her number was followed by a play "Camp Life" by some of the legion members. Ike Rubenstein (Frank Racey) caused not a little merriment with his wit. The character dances with Grove, district No. 6; third, Island school, district No. 5.

Mrs. A. L. Fritsch, Miss Lucille Ruppel and Miss Beulah Dewar acted as judges. F. R. O'Hanlon, principal of the Dale graded school, who was the contest chairman for the town of Dale, was in charge.

A. A. Thomson, state inspector of schools, and County Superintendent A. G. Meating visited and inspected the Dale school Wednesday, April 30.

Miss Clymene Tarisay as leader proved one of the most beautiful numbers but the most touching part of the program was the living picture or pantomime, "Over There," "In Flanders Field" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

The community orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Winnifred Peterson played during each intermission.

On Saturday morning while at work on the new school building William Behm fell from the elevator and was badly bruised. Some of the men took him to a doctor's office on a stretcher where they found he had no bones broken. He will be back at work in a few days.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every Druggist in this country is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenru, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduced swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenru has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitious and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenru, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenru decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. ## TRAVELING CLINIC WILL VISIT COUNTY BEGINNING JUNE 9

State Health Department Sends
Doctors and Nurses
Through State

Word has been received at the office of A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, that the state Child Welfare Health Special, traveling clinic, will visit this county during the weeks beginning Monday, June 9.

Efforts has been made by Mr. Meating to have the traveling clinic stop here on their route and he received assurance early that Outagamie county would be included in the itinerary, but the exact date was not known until recently.

As for the conveniences of health clinics, residents of rural districts will be the ones to benefit chiefly. Health clinics have been held in Appleton and Kaukauna, but this is the first time that the clinic will go directly to the patients themselves. Farmers will not have to travel miles to Appleton to have their sick children examined, but can visit the clinic much nearer home.

HOSPITAL ON WHEELS.
A hospital on wheels, with a White Swan body, will provide accommodations of all persons examined. A doctor who is an expert on children's diseases and defects will accompany the clinic and nurses will be on hand to give their service.

The examinations will be entirely free. No medicine will be given, but persons in need of medical attention will be turned over to local physicians for treatment. Children with bad teeth, tonsil adenoid trouble, sore eyes, discharging ears, lung trouble, organic heart disease, skin diseases may have their ailments diagnosed and will receive expert advice, especially as to diet and general care.

11,600 Loaves Of Bread Can Be Baked Daily At Stingle's Modern Bakery

A. H. Stingle, general manager and president of the Stingle and Sons Baking company, completes 32 years of baking experience in Appleton with the completion of his new $100,000 bakery and the expansion of his business to cover a territory of 50 miles on all sides of Appleton. Mr. Stingle was 21 when he began to learn his trade from Joseph Loeffel, who owned the old bakery which Mr. Stingle bought later and has developed into his new modern plant.

After six months work in the Loeffel bakery, he went to work for the Woodward bakery. After two more years, he was employed by Stephen Pfeiffer, a brother of A. Pfeiffer, who is proprietor of the Elm Tree bakery. It was 23 years ago that Mr. Stingle bought the Loeffel bakery and began business in what became known as the Vienna bakery.

Because the owner had a vision of what good bread and baking would mean to a community, he has been able to go ahead until now he has bakery building, just completed, which is 45 feet by 60 feet and three stories high. It is located directly back of the retail department at 958 College-ave. The ovens, divider, rounder, overhead proofer, moulder, and proofing cabinets are on the first floor, two dough mixers, a cake machine and the doughnut department are on the second floor, while the sifting outfit and the flour storage is on the third floor.

This plant is far larger than any in cities the size of Appleton but it was built with the idea of Appleton's growth in mind. Its capacity is 11,600 loaves of bread in eight hours. Besides the bread output, cookies and 5000 pounds of cake can be made. This does not include the output of the doughnut department.

A. H. Stingle is the president, founder and general manager of the company while his sons are promoting other departments of the new institution. Sylvester E. Stingle is asstant manager. Raymond J. Stingle is head of the sales department while Clarence O. Stingle has charge of the shipping department.

Plans have been drawn for the big garage which will house the five motor trucks of the company. It will be built on Adams st near the Hopfensperger market garage. This will be erected at once.

About 10,000 tons of steel are going into the new steel arch bridge across Niagara Falls, the fourteenth to span that majestic body of falling water. The new structure is in about the same location as the first one, which was built about 1848.

State Advertising Brings 1,000 Inquiries In Day

If people of Outagamie who have been asked to give something toward the publicity campaign of Wisconsin, The Land o' Lakes, Inc., have held back believing their money would not be well spent in the interest of Wisconsin's development, they have but to read the bulletin issued by E. O. Barstow, secretary of the lakes association.

Only a few advertisements have appeared in newspapers and magazines in the south and middle west, yet the requests for booklets describing Wisconsin are flooding Mr. Barstow's office at Rhinelander at the rate of 300 to 500 a day. On Tuesday, April 22, there were 1,000 inquiries and the flood continues.

The secretary is kept busy supplying information from people who want to come to the state for a vacation, from others desiring homes or farms, for business and professional men seeking locations and others seeking work. These requests are bulletined all over the state so cities contributing to the publicity may have a chance to share in the benefits.

Outagamie needs more than $1,500 to pay in full its share of the cost of this advertising which is bringing such splendid results. Large numbers of business men and others have been asked by letter to give what they could. Many have responded, but the response has not been general enough and more money is needed at once. Bills amounting to more than $5,000 were due May 1, and remittances therefore should be made at once to Wisconsin. The Land o' Lakes Committee, Appleton.

ON THE SCREEN

THE LAW OF COMPENSATION WILSON MUNZER'S POPULAR STORY

Lovers of good motion pictures have a genuine treat in store for them Wednesday and Thursday when The Law of Compensation, starring Norma Talmadge, commences its two day engagement at the New Eljoui Theatre. Miss Talmadge interprets with great skill this intensely interesting and dramatic story by Wilson Munzer. She is ably assisted by an excellent cast, which includes the clever Sally Crute.

The story of The Law of Compensation presents Miss Talmadge first as a school girl, revelling in the joyous abandon of youth, and then as a mature woman, the transition affording the brilliant young star opportunities for the most exacting sort of emotional acting. Miss Talmadge first appears as the young daughter of a wealthy lawyer of the Middle West. She marries a young inventor and goes east to live. After the birth of their baby, the girl becomes interested in a musical career and eventually finds herself on the verge of a taking a step that would ruin her life's happiness. Her father learns of this and arrives just in time to save her by the recital of the story of the life and death of her mother.

CORINNE GRIFFITH AND CON- WAY TEARLE SPLENDID IN CO-STARRING PARTS

There came to the Eljoui Theatre yesterday a picture that we urge all of our readers to see, because in our estimation it has not been excelled as an emotion-stirring photodrama, and because it contains the finest cast that we have ever beheld in a single production.

The offering is "Lilies of the Field" a First National picture co-starring Corinne Griffith and Conway Tearle, supported by Sylvia Breamer, Myrtle Steadman, Alma Bennett, Crawford Kent, Charles Murray, Phyllis Haver, Cissy Fitzgerald, Edith Ranson and Charles Gerard. All of these names are familiar to you, and we believe you will agree with us that they represent a cast of unusual excellence.

"Lilies of the Field" was adapted from the stage success by William Hurlbut, and directed by John Francis Dillon, who made "Flaming Youth."

If we have ever seen a screen story with such a gripping quality we cannot recall it. "Lilies of the Field" is the story of a beautiful young wife who, patiently bearing mistreatment at the hands of her husband, is deserted by him and rob-

INVITE PUBLIC TO INSPECT NEW PLANT

Every man and woman in Appleton is invited to inspect the addition to the Stingle and Sons Baking Company's plant on Wednesday afternoon or evening. The entire building with all its modern and scientific machinery, which represents an expenditure of more than $100,000 will be open for inspection by the public Wednesday.

The management has arranged a special invitation reception for Tuesday evening. The guests will include all grocery men who will eventually handle the Stingle product and representatives of the 15 firms with which the wholesale bakery company does business at the present time. There will be a program followed by dancing on the third floor.

It has been announced by the manager, A. Stingle, that the new plant will always be open for inspection. Clubs which would like to make arrangements for a special tour of inspection on some day other than the one set aside for the public may make arrangements for it by calling the retail department.

bed of her child. Unable to find them, she resigns herself to her fate and tries to untangle the snarled skein of life. A great love comes into her life, just as she is being sucked into the whirlpool of forgetful gaiety, and through this love the happiness she has lost is restored to her.

There is a humanness about this picture which will endear it to all those who see it.
